Good morning, I.S 201! This is Nicole from class 851 here for Talk a Lot Tuesday on behalf of the S.E.A.L. Team.

Today is Look for an Evergreen Day! Today's holiday encourages people to go out of their way to buy an evergreen tree for this year's Christmas tree. While that itself may not sound fun or appealing, Look for an Evergreen Day means more than just a day to go shopping.

Why is Look for an Evergreen Day important? First of all, Christmas is very fun, but preparing for it can become very hectic and busy. Look for an Evergreen Day serves as a day where people can stop and think about what's left to do in terms of holiday arrangements. In case the Christmas tree hasn't been bought yet, Look for an Evergreen Day ensures that everyone gets their Christmas tree in time.

Look for an Evergreen Day can also be seen as a joyful mini-celebration before Christmas. Christmas is a holiday that I'm sure everyone has been anticipating, so a few smaller festive events can help people consider what they want to do for Christmas as well as have a little bit of fun before the big day.

Furthermore, evergreen trees symbolize eternity. These trees preserve their green leave throughout the winter, so they illustrate immortality and the feeling of foreverness. People can use Look for an Evergreen Day as a way to plan out how they want to spend quality time with their loved ones during Christmas and immortalize the fun they have into their memories.

Evergreen trees also represent new beginnings. Look for an Evergreen Day reminds us that Christmas is right around the corner, and that it's time to go out and have fun!

Thank you for listening, and have a very merry Tree Tuesday!
